MIDDLE CHINATROOPS REINFORCED FOR NEW MOVES IN SOUTH PACIFIC

A resurgence of Allied advances against by-passed Japanese in the Southern Pacific was reported today (Friday) by Gen. Douglas MacArthur a few hours after amphibious Japanese troops swept across Tungting Lake in a growing Central China offensive.

Reinforcements poured onto Biak Island in the Schouten group where American infantrymen were halted temporarily by fixed enemy defenses. Two hundred miles eastward on New Guinea's coast infantry patrols ran the number of Japanese dead in the ake-Sarmi sector up to 1,453.

Changsha Encircled

Far to the southeast Australians, pressing up Alexishafen, closed tighter a vise on thousands of isolated Japanese. The Aussies advanced to Gurn, midway between Alexishafen and the enemy stronghold at Hansa Bay.

On the long quiet Solomons front Allied amphibious troops made another landing on Bougainville Island seven miles southeast of Torokina River in a sudden expansion of their Empress Augusta Bay beachhead.

The Japanese amphibious action on the continent carried them into the heart of Central China's rice bowl and threatened the stronghold of Changsha from a third side.

The operation by-passed Changteh, scene of the bloodiest fighting in last fall's rice bowl battle. It represented a 35-mile advance for the western column of the massive three-pronged drive southward. It brought the three spearheads on an even line along a 100-mile front. Lesser gains were made by the main central force and the eastern flank.

Garrison Wiped Out

Chinese women and children fled from Changsha yesterday (Thursday) before the threat of advancing Japanese armies which are taking control of more territory in Central China than the Allies are losing to the Allies in Southeast Asia and New Guinea.

However, American and Chinese infantrymen, slogging through the muddy Mogaung Valley in North Burma, wiped out the Japanese garrison at Malakawng. They took over that enemy strong point preparatory to pushing on down the valley to the Mandalay-Myitkyna railway. Allies to the east were reported "making satisfactory progress" in closing in from three sides on Myitkyna, main Japanese base in North Burma.

Chinese forces drove through mountainous Southwest China to within 20 air miles of Tengchow, main Japanese base in Yunnan Province, protecting the Burma road—prize of both the North Burma and Yunnan fighting.

Native troops captured one village from the invaders in Eastern India, where Japanese were reported digging in to weather the monsoons.

U. S. Airbases Menaced

U. S. Sixth army troops who fell back earlier in the week on Biak Island, off Northwest New Guinea, in the face of a Japanese ambush and tank attacks, turned to wiping out sniper nests and consolidating their positions preparatory to a new drive.

TRAVEL IS TIED
UP IN ST. LOUISBus And Street Cars
Idle In Strike Of
3,500 Operators

St. Louis, June 1 (AP)—Spontaneous share-the-ride was the only mass transportation available to several hundred thousand St. Louis office, factory and war workers today because of an unauthorized strike of 3,500 bus and street car operators.

Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann conferred with regional officials of the War Labor Board who flew here from Kansas City, and with executives of the St. Louis Public Service company and leaders of the AFL Amalgamated Street Car, Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employees of America.

"St. Louis is substantially paralyzed," the mayor asserted, "and I earnestly insist the rights of a million people are paramount to the equities in any private dispute."

The strike developed suddenly during the night and became generally known to St. Louisans only when they gathered at corner bus and street car stops this morning. Private automobiles were pressed into service and workers turned to trucks and even bicycles to get to their jobs.

Police Capt. Raymond Dowling said the heavy traffic was from 200 to 400 per cent over wartime normal volume. He described congestion in the business district as a "nightmare." Automatic traffic signals were turned off and policemen struggled at unsnarling traffic jams.

Albuquerque, N. M., June 1 (AP)—A riderless mare, her bride tied to the saddle horn, jogged along a lonesome road today, bound for her ranch home.

Her young master had gone to war.

Kenneth Dee Foust, 17, wanted to ride his favorite pony as far as he could before saying goodbye as he left to enlist in the navy here.

He rode her 16 miles from his Alamosa Alta ranch to Bernadillo, where she was turned loose to go home alone while he continued his trip by bus.

"I had plenty to think about and Lady did too on our last ride together," the boy said simply. "It may be a long time before I see her again."

Battle Is Started
On Swimmers' Itch

Lansing, June 1 (AP)—Milton P. Adams, secretary of the State Stream Commission, said today he planned to start two parties of experts June 20 to treat bathing beaches against the snails which carry "swimmers' itch."

Adams said operators of resort and bathing beaches, anticipating increased tourist and resort business in the state this year, had asked for an increase in the battle against the itch. He said last year only one field party was employed.

RAIDS ON RAIL
CENTERS KEPT
UP BY ALLIESREPEATED ASSAULTS
DISLOCATE NAZI
SUPPLY LINES

BY GLADWIN HILL

London, June 1 (AP)—Strong formations of medium bombers and fighters struck out across the English channel toward the French invasion coast late this afternoon after a heavy RAF night assault on three strategic French transportation centers.

Murky weather over the channel held the Allied daylight forces land-bound during the early part of the day but cleared in time for a series of flights against the Nazis' already well-battered tactical targets.

The RAF opened the month of June with an attack which made it clear that the "battle of the railroads" had not ended. A strong force of about 500 night bombers dropped probably more than 2,200 tons of bombs on freight yards in Trappes, Tergnier and Saumur, French centers vital to the Germans for routing supplies to their coastal armies.

Blow Delivered Swiftly

Unspecified military objectives along the French coast also were hit in the night's operations, during which the RAF lost eight planes. The noise of the bombardment got Englishmen up out of their beds. Virtually the entire blow was delivered in 15 minutes.

The British airmen spread out over a 200-mile front of interior France to hit the rail centers, rated as three of the biggest being used for supplying the German invasion front.

In another night operation the Allied Mediterranean air forces sent out Liberators which bombed the railroad tow tracks alongside the Danube river's iron gate canal on the Romanian-Yugoslav border.

The month of June may see a complete dislocation of the Nazis' military transportation system in occupied France, Belgium and Holland if the Allied air forces maintain their overwhelming assault on the railroad targets behind the Atlantic wall.

Since the all-out campaign to disrupt communications in western Europe began early in March, American and British planes have carried out 246 attacks on 94 railroad targets, some in great strength. Most of these raids were made on points as deep as Brunswick, Germany, 400 miles from the channel coast.

CUT IN UTILITY
RATES DEBATEDSuggestions Are Sought
To Offset Federal Profits Taxes

Lansing, June 1 (AP)—The Michigan Public Service Commission failed today to draw from the state's principal utility companies suggestions for rate reductions to offset federal excess profits taxes.

Corporation spokesmen, declaring business uncertainties in many cases prevented them from estimating what those taxes would be, argued that utility rates should not be formulated on unusual current business conditions.

The hearing resulted from a recent state supreme court decision instructing the commission to consider eliminating excess profits taxes when computing rates.

Prentiss M. Brown, chairman of the board of the Detroit Edison company and former U. S. senator and OPA administrator, said his firm had little financial interest in the disposition of approximately $12,000,000 it expects to pay this year in excess profits taxes.

"The question is," he said, "which of three claimants to the fund is more justly entitled to it. The bulk of it came from the great war plants in Detroit and to them from the taxpayers of the nation. Should it be channeled to the rate-payers of the Detroit area; should it go to the city of Detroit through the city's proposed 20 per cent excise tax, or should it go back to the people of the nation through the U. S. treasury?"

PAY INCREASE APPROVED

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The War Labor Board today authorized a wage increase of $2 a week for about 450 employees of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Detroit, to bring their rates into line with those of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company.

Chlorine Gas
Leak Hits 400
At Brooklyn

New York, June 1 (AP)—Escaping chlorine gas felled approximately 400 persons at a busy intersection in Brooklyn today.

Most of those overcome were removed to hospitals, at least 127 in serious condition. No fatalities were reported.

The gas, leaking from a tank being transported in a truck to a Brooklyn pier, spread about two blocks in every direction. Men, women and high school students on their way home began to cough, vomit, stagger and then fall flat, creating a scene resembling pictures from the war.

The gas, heavier than air, descended through ventilators into the subway, forcing scores of persons to flee to the street where they, too, toppled over.

Subway traffic on four lines was halted for 45 minutes.

The bureau of operations at New York police headquarters said the tanks were intended for shipment to Cartagena, Colombia.

A chemist for Standard Oil company, New Jersey, who asked that his name be withheld, said the major use of chlorine gas by armies today is in the purification of water, and that considerable amounts were necessary. Civilian industrial uses are for bleaching paper and textiles, among other things.

Chlorine gas was used as a "bait" for the early part of the first war, he said, then was discarded.

A typical eye-witness account was that of Frank Epstein, who said he was walking along Flatbush avenue extension "when suddenly people around me began falling to the sidewalk like flies."

Like others who did not immediately feel the effects of the gas, he was startled at the sight of so many persons strewn about for no apparent reason.

"They looked like dead soldiers the way they were falling," he said.

HUSH POLITICS
IS CONDEMNEDStassen Supporter Says
Candidates Should Come Out In Open

BY JACK BELL

Associated Press Staff Writer

Protesting against what he called "hush-a-bye" politics, a supporter of Lieut. Comdr. Harold E. Stassen declared last night it is "lamentable" that many people are better informed on the activities of comic strip characters than they are on "the qualifications and opinions of all possible presidential candidates."

The complaint was voiced by John B. Quinn, who managed the campaign in which Stassen won the Nebraska preferential primary. A substantial write-in vote was recorded for Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in that contest.

Quinn said that either because of political expediency or of necessity, the majority of the principal presidential contenders do not talk about political subjects.

"This creates an unusual situation wherein the public, generally speaking, is inadequately informed," he said in a statement issued in Washington.

LONDON, (by wireless)—There was a knock at my door and two young lieutenants with silver wings and bright medals on their chests walked in. They were in town on leave and had decided to pay a social call.

They are the pilot and navigator of a Flying Fortress. They came to see me because I had known the pilot's mother in San Francisco. She is Mary White, and she used to manage the coffee shop at the Hotel Californian, which was my home whenever I was in San Francisco.

Her son, Lieut. Bill White, is a likable young fellow whose blonde hair sticks up high from his forehead and whose eyes crinkle when he smiles.

His navigator is Lieut. John D. Pyle. At first he thought he was crazy and had forgotten which wing he'd seen the hole in. His head went back and forth as though at a tennis match. Acting as a first lieutenant.

NEW INVASION
MAY BEGIN IN
NORTH AFRICA150,000 TO 200,000 MEN REPORTED SET TO JUMP OFF

BY JAMES M. LONG

London, June 1 (AP)—A German military commentator declared today that 15 Allied divisions—150,000 to 200,000 men—were massed in North Africa, ready to strike at the French or Italian Riviera when the signal for the invasion from the west is given in Britain.

The Germans were aware of plans for potentially powerful offensives from all sides.

From Britain, the great amphibious movement is not far off, said Admiral Sir William M. James, chief of naval information.

From the southeast, Marshal Tito, in an order of the day, called upon the Yugoslavs for an all-out decisive attack, "particularly now when the last blow of the Red army and the Anglo-American Allied troops is approaching."

Reds Waiting

To the east, the Red army was poised and waiting.

To the south, Americans were in sight of Rome's towers, and the Nazi commander begged for reserves from the ranks of those already guarding the invasion front.

In the Near East, Turkey was reported likely to move into the war when the Allies give the signal.

The Nazi military commentator for DNE, German news agency, pictured the island of Corsica transformed to a great springboard for a blow at Europe's south flank by the North Africa force, coordinated with an attack from Britain.

This force, he said, is composed of ten infantry divisions and five tank divisions, which will "obviously be employed in the forthcoming large-scale attack on the western European coasts." He spoke of concentrations of landing vessels in North African ports, and referred to the campaign in Italy as an Allied attempt merely to tie down as many German reserves as possible.

Battle Creek Split
Over D-Day Rites

Battle Creek, Mich., June 1 (AP)—The Battle Creek Junior Chamber of Commerce called upon the city's Ministerial Association Thursday to toll church bells summoning residents to prayer services on D-day and urged industrial concerns to blow whistles or sirens despite the city commission's recent order prohibiting such signals marking the invasion.

Lyle H. Alexander, state department adjutant of the American Legion, wired Earl J. Bartwistle, former local and state American Legion office holder, protesting the city's action and asked help in securing observance in Battle Creek in conformity with the plan in other cities.

Dr. Bohn suffered a heart attack while at his summer cottage at Whitefish lake Sunday, followed by repeated attacks during the week. With him at the time of his death were his wife and daughter, Mrs. Harold Krueger.

Funeral services will be held at the Bohn residence at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, with Rev. Edward Green, Episcopal rector of Sault Ste. Marie, officiating. Burial will be in the Newberry cemetery. The Beaulieu funeral home has charge of the funeral arrangements.

He was born in Charlottesville, Hancock county, Indiana, July 14, 1866, a son of Daniel and Mary F. Bohn.

Dr. Bohn attended the rural schools of Cass county, Indiana, and the high school in Charlottesville of that state. Deciding to enter upon the practice of medicine, he pursued a preparatory course at Central College in Danville, Ind., and then enrolled as a student in the Medical College of Indiana at Indianapolis, where he won his M. D. degree on March 1, 1890. For a few months thereafter he served as city physician of Indianapolis and in July, 1890, made his way to Seney, Mich., where he practiced for about six years. ARMY IS POISED
TO BATTER AXISDecisive Action Period
Now At Hand, Declares
Secretary Stimson

BY WILLIAM FRYE

Washington, June 1 (AP)—The "period of decisive action," against the axis powers is at hand, Secretary of War Stimson asserted today with nearly half the army's total strength in action against the enemy or poised in combat zones for new offensives.

Disclosing that 3,657,000 soldiers are now deployed outside continental United States, Stimson told a news conference the overseas strength of air and service forces is virtually at its peak, while the movement of ground troops—more than half of which already are overseas—is increasing at a rate which will lift the overseas deployment total to more than 5,000,000 men by the year's end.

Indicating that the greater part of this huge force is concentrated against Germany, Stimson said developments will make it necessary to shift portions of the overseas strength from one part of the world to another as the Allied grand strategy unfolds.

Stimson also disclosed that American army casualties in Italy through May 27 were 3,886 killed, 35,910 wounded and 8,554 missing. The total of 55,150 was an increase of 16,092 since the secretary last reported on March 23, when his figures were 5,749 killed, 23,035 wounded and 10,274 missing.

PIERCES GERMAN
DEFENSE LINE

BY NOLAND NORGARD

Allied Headquarters, Naples, June 1 (AP)—American troops in a spectacular, danger-fraught night time advance have pierced the Germans' powerful defense line before Rome, encircling the enemy stronghold of Velletri and capturing a towering ridge of the Alban Hills from which they once see the dome of St. Peter's.

Kenneth Dixon, Associated Press field correspondent who accompanied the Yanks in a moonlit "sneak" onto 2,000-foot heights behind the Nazis' main defenses, said in a delayed dispatch:

Town Doomed

"All day long soldiers have been delousing these heights, cleaning out snipers, machine-gunners and fluid enemy patrols which already are frantically trying to fight their way out of the trap. Already hundreds of prisoners have been taken and it looks from here like encircled Velletri is soon due to fall to Fifth army troops."

The bitterly-resisting garrison of Velletri was caught between the Doughboy raiders holding Monte Artemisio, two miles north and northwest of the town, and the main Allied striking force fighting its way into the tottering bastion from the south and east.

Between Velletri and Valmontone, another principal bulwark of the enemy's defense wall before the Eternal City, American troops had plunged almost two miles up the volcanic slopes and seized a point on Mount Pesciol ridge, highest feature of the Alban Hills. Both Yank spearheads were within 15 miles of Rome's ancient city wall.

BEACH OPENING MAY BE EARLY

Is Set For Saturday If Warm Weather Stays
Till Weekend

If the warm weather continues over the weekend, guards will be assigned and the beach will be open Saturday and Sunday, city officials announced last night.

Because of a labor shortage it was believed up to Thursday that the beach could not be made ready before June 10, but due to the unseasonable weather and many requests for swimming, Robert Clayton, head of the forestry and park department, offered the services of his park crew to do the work immediately necessary, and with other departments cooperating as much as possible, the beach can be used over the weekend.

Buoys marking the shallow water area will be placed, the beach will be raked and debris removed, and temporary repairs will be made on the road. Rafts and diving platform will not be installed and painting of the temporary dressing rooms planned for next week will not be started until then. Within the next week or two the sand-sucker will begin work and will fill low spots and touch up the sand area.

Two full-time guards have been engaged for the summer, the recreation department announced yesterday. Virginia LaChance will direct activities and will be assisted by Bill Vachon. Miss LaChance is one of the few in Delta county who holds an instructor's certificate. She was a regular guard and instructor last summer. Vachon holds a senior life saving certificate.

One more guard for peak periods will be engaged on an hourly basis as has been the custom in past years but up to last night, definite appointment had not been made.

One suggested postwar use of the helicopter is to carry girders and beams to high buildings and bridges during construction, eliminating use of derricks, elevators, and cranes.

Blast Kills Six Ft. Knox Soldiers

Fort Knox, Ky., June 1 (AP)—Six Fort Knox soldiers were killed and 15 others injured about noon today when ten pounds of nitro-starch exploded during a training maneuver on the post, the armored center public relations office announced.

A board of inquiry was ordered by Maj. Gen. Charles L. Scott, commandant of the armored replacement training center, to determine the cause of the explosion. Names of the victims were withheld pending notification of the next of kin.

Lt. Col. W. H. Nutter, chief of staff of the A. R. T. C., emphasized that the loss of life was kept at a minimum because a medical unit was on duty with the troops.

Briefly Told

Arrested Here — George McBride, 20, yesterday afternoon was arrested by Escanaba police and held in jail for Milwaukee officers, who will return him to that city to face a grand larceny charge. He had been in Escanaba about two weeks and was rooming at the Northwestern hotel. Police had no particulars on the larceny with which he is charged in Milwaukee.

flame-throwers, artillery and tanks. Allied headquarters described the gains as "limited but important."

The Germans continued to hurl fierce counter-attacks at the advancing Americans and British, and 15 Nazi fighter planes made a rare appearance over the raging battle. One was blown out of the air by ground fire.

Road Kept Open
British forces pushing up from the coastal sector due south of Rome reached an undisclosed point on the road north of Ardea, and Allied armored units slashing west of the fortified town of Lanuvio crossed the Fosse Di Campoleone, a drainage canal, miles from the highway. The Germans were strongly entrenched in the entire Lanuvio sector, taking full advantage of difficult terrain and employing concrete pillboxes, anti-tank gun emplacements and self-propelled artillery. The battlefield was overhung by clouds of dust, through which large fleets of American medium bombers rained death on enemy troop concentrations and gun emplacements.

A special announcement late today said the British were pursuing Nazi troops up the Via Cassina from Frosinone. These Nazis were within about 23 airline miles of Valmontone, through which the enemy by furious counterattacks has kept the Via Cassina open.

New Zealanders captured Sora, northeast of Frosinone and 13 miles up a lateral highway from Arce. San Giovanni also fell to the Allies. British troops overran Ripi, four miles southeast of Frosinone, and Torrice, two miles to the east.

French forces, blasting their way forward four miles in two days, captured Patricia, six miles south of the Via Cassina, and Monte Piscarella, seven miles from the highway. The Germans had been cleared out of the whole of the Lepini mountain range.

JAPS PUSHING DEEPER INTO MIDDLE CHINA

paratory to resuming their advance.

Chinese field dispatches reported that with the Japanese 40 miles from Changsha, the town had been evacuated by unnecessary civilians, shops closed and newspapers suspended. Changsha is the principal obstacle in the Japanese march down the Hankow-Canton railway, bisecting Southern China. American air bases would be cut off by a successful enemy campaign there.

American airmen were active over all oriental warfronts. They ruled the air over Honan Province, where motorized Japanese columns controlled the land. Over the Pacific, United States bombers wound up May with the eleventh strike of the month against the Kurile Islands, hitting Shumushu, northernmost of this chain leading from the Aleutians to Japan.

News From Men In The Service

Norbert Gauthier, S 2/c, U. S. Navy, is expected at his home in Fayette in a few days. He is receiving a medical discharge as a result of a back injury he received when the boat he was on enroute to Australia was torpedoed. He was confined to a hospital in Australia for four months. He arrived in the United States Jan. 1, 1944, and was transferred to a hospital at Glenwood Springs, Colo., where he has since been convalescing.

While attending a theater in Rockford, Ill. recently, Mrs. George Keiser of Escanaba was thrilled to see a closeup picture of her son, Sgt. William Cary, in a news reel. The news reel showed Gen. Eisenhower inspecting a B-26 bomber in England.

"There suddenly in a good closeup with three members of the crew was my son, Sgt. Wm. Cary," Mrs. Keiser reports from Rockford, where she is visiting her daughter. "He is an electrician specialist on a bomber crew. That was a thrill that does not come even once in a lifetime to most of us."

Sgt. George J. Brown, son of William Brown, Trenary, has been promoted to staff sergeant. He is stationed at Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland.

Pvt. Fredolf O. Nelson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Nelson of Gulliver, Mich., has been assigned to the AAF Training Command Radio School at Sioux Falls Army Air Field, Sioux Falls, S. D., for training as a radio operator-mechanic. Upon completion of a 20-week course, he will be fully trained to take his place as a member of a highly skilled bomber crew of the Army Air Forces.

U. S. About Only Spot Where Life Is Normal

BY MARQUIS CHILDS

Washington—I wonder if ever before in history there has been a period of suspense like the one that surely now must be almost ended outwardly, here in America life goes on as it always has.

That is one of the strange things about the period we've been living through. Ours is almost the last area on the face of the earth where life is normal or comparatively normal; where shops have clothes, jewelry, food, flowers; where people have money to buy these things; where the trains are crowded with people going places.

It's even a little scary when you stop to think about it—how isolated we are in our prosperity and our seeming security. On the eve of invasion, the OPA took the questionable step of lifting one of the few restrictions on civilians, making all meats except beefsteaks and roasts available without ration points.

Admiral Ernest J. King, chief of Naval operations, in a talk the other day, warned against wishful thinking and easy optimism. Above all, he wanted to say that the invasion of Europe would not be, as some people seem to have assumed, a matter of pushing the ball over the goal line from the two-yard line.

I doubt, however, if the general mood is one of false optimism. Perhaps fatalism more nearly describes the American attitude at this moment—a fatalism colored with the basic hope that the war in Europe will be over at the year's end.

In any effort at appraisal of the American attitude on the eve, you have to take two things into account. One is the remoteness of the war, and the other is the vastness of the American population.

While the surface seems the same, down below there are tensions. So many families have relatives or close friends in the war. Many people, too, are beginning to realize that we can know nothing really about the end of the war until the big test is met.

Here in Washington, it has been a strange spring, with the summer heat and the green summer lushness coming on early. Most top officials have been waiting and planning and working and thinking all to one end. It would certainly be false to say that they are optimistic. Far better than anyone else, they know the hazards of this operation.

You have the feeling from time to time of suspended animation—of people posing for a photograph, for a time exposure. Most of us who are posing for this long-drawn-out time exposure in the curious spring of 1944 know that nothing will ever be quite the same again after the first shot is fired. But we go on with our more or less normal lives because, I suppose, life is like that.

Workers Leave Plants

With the workers who have been leaving vital west coast war plants to go back home, the case is somewhat different. War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt's regional directors were in the other day to report on the seriousness of this situation. Something like an exodus has begun in California.

These people have the idea that the war is nearly over. They want to get back home and get steady jobs in a stable community. Knowing the intense competitiveness of American life, which has not been suspended by the war, they want to get placed before the big rush begins.

It's cruel to say it but there is apparently no substitute for bombs. In Britain, during the "phony war" from September of 1939 to May of 1940, people were complacent. With them the war was a thousand miles away. With us it's four thousand miles off, and news—even instant news and news photographs—is apparently no substitute.

While the surface seems the same, down below there are tensions. So many families have relatives or close friends in the war. Many people, too, are beginning to realize that we can know nothing really about the end of the war until the big test is met.

DOG ORDINANCE EFFECTIVE SOON

Council Okeys Ordinance
Controlling Dogs In Summer Months

An Escanaba city ordinance providing for the control of dogs within the city limits was approved as amended at last night's meeting of the city council and will become effective June 10.

The ordinance in its wording will follow closely the state dog law, which provides that all dogs must be licensed, and that unlicensed dogs may be disposed of without hearing. Dog owners must, under terms of the ordinance, keep the dog confined on their own premises or, if at large, on a leash or under reasonable control, from May 1 to August 31 of each year.

Dogs permitted to run at large may be picked up and impounded, and the owner must pay $1.50 before the dog will be released. Amendments to the ordinance previously considered consisted of most of all in the wording of certain portions, and in shortening the period by one month when dogs must be confined. The council expressed belief that August 31 was a sufficiently late date to enforce the ordinance.

Another ordinance which will become effective June 10 was adopted last night. It provides local penalties for violations of

Must Shoulder the Blame

AS MORE alleged facts are revealed concerning the sordid conditions that surrounded the 1939 session of the Michigan state legislature, the people of this state must be more than ever convinced that the present grand jury investigation was fully justified. The returning of true bills against 13 defendants, already indicted under other graft giving and taking charges, would create the impression that state legislation was bought and sold on the block, during the 1939 legislative session with the utmost impunity. The branch banking bill and the state's intangible tax law, so far, are the measures that seem to have been most prominently involved in the buying and selling of votes, but, there is no assurance that other legislation was not involved.

It will be recalled that at about the time the 1939 legislature was in session, a Wayne county grand jury investigation revealed the existence of wholesale graft in the conduct of the affairs of both Wayne county and the city of Detroit. Apparently Wayne county and Detroit graft methods were merely moved to the state capital, where while the "take" was not as impressive as in Michigan's most populous county and largest city, it was equally reprehensible.

The fact that most of those involved in indictments now returned by the state, hail from Detroit and Wayne county emphasizes the general type of representation, Wayne county has maintained in recent years in the state legislature. As long as that county maintains the practice of sending alleged thieves and black-mailers to Lansing, decent citizens of that county can expect little consideration from the rest of the state. A few out state senators and representatives have been indicted, but the bulk of the defendants hail from Detroit and that group can well be charged with the downfall of weak out state senators and representatives.

More Nazi Atrocities

SOME persons who read about the U-boat's sparing of a refugee ship off Bermuda after receiving orders from Berlin not to torpedo it, may be inclined to assume that Hitler isn't a bad fellow, after all.

They should not adopt this view, however, for the stopping of the fully-lighted ship and setting alight but two of the 385 passengers adrift in lifeboats in the dark of the night was in itself a gross violation of international law. As a result of the submarine captain's act, three persons, including a small baby, lost their lives.

For a better picture of the brutal Nazi heart and mind one must read the stories of the mass Gestapo executions of civilians in German-occupied France, Belgium and Holland. Fearing the hour of invasion is near, the Nazis are ruthlessly murdering scores of people in these countries, apparently to frighten others from giving assistance to the Allied troops when they land in Western Europe.

We may expect when the Nazis become aware that their doom is sealed that they will make a great propaganda play for a merciful peace. That will be the time to recall the atrocities committed by the Gestapo in Czechoslovakia, Poland, Norway and the other Nazi-occupied countries so that Hitler and his cohorts will be treated not too leniently but with the harsh justice they deserve.

Swing to Tito

LATEST development in the Yugoslavian riddle is the Associated Press dispatch from London stating that King Peter II is now willing to appoint Marshal Tito commander-in-chief of the Yugoslav army to replace General Draja Mihailovich of the Chetnik forces. It is also understood that the exiled King has promised not to return to Yugoslavia until after an election is held to determine what kind of postwar government the people of that Balkan nation desire.

Early in the war we were led to believe in this country that the Chetniks composed the main resistance to Hitler's invading armies. Then news trickled out about another guerrilla army, headed by Tito, which also was fighting the Nazis, but independently of Mihailovich. In fact, it was later established that the Chetniks were at times even hindering the fighting efforts of Tito's Partisans.

The schism even had its reverberations in this country, where American Slavs took sides, either for the royal government group of King Peter II and General Mihailovich or for Tito's Partisans. There were charges that the Partisans were Communists. Newspaper and magazine articles by Daniel de Luce, Associated Press reporter, however, indicated they composed rather a mass movement of the common people who wanted liberation from the prewar rule of royal families as much as they wanted victory over the Nazi invaders.

What they want is a government of their own choosing such as the Americans demanded when they issued the Declaration of Independence in 1776, like the Icelanders wanted when they voted overwhelmingly recently for separation from Denmark, and like other peoples want the right of self-determination in other parts of the world.

The news from London indicates that King Peter and his advisers finally realize that the so-called divine right of kings to rule has become outmoded. The people of Yugoslavia are not fighting for the maintenance of the status quo, but look upon World War II as their opportunity to win greater economic and social freedom.

Air Service Needed

CHAMBERS of Commerce and other civic organizations in northern Wisconsin and Upper Michigan are being asked to assist in the survey to determine the potential use of air mail, passenger and express service in connection with the application of the Midwest Airways to establish a commercial flying route between Milwaukee and Marquette.

Tentative plans of the Midwest Airways are to make Upper Peninsula stops at Menominee, Escanaba and Marquette. The company's application will be considered at a CAA hearing to be held in Washington on June 27, and the decision is favorable it would proceed with plans for opening the route. Actual starting of operations, however, would depend upon when the military services will permit the production of additional planes for commercial use.

It should be encouraging to the Upper Peninsula, that the Midwest Airways is not waiting for the war's end before beginning its preliminary spade work. Whether the CAA will give its approval, however, will depend largely upon how much proof of the need of air service is presented.

There is no denying that in this modern age of air travel the Upper Peninsula feels quite isolated from the rest of the world. The public is much more air conscious than before the war. Many Upper Peninsula boys are now flying with the armed forces, and friends and relatives are using air mail and V-mail in greatly increased volume.

Postwar interest in air transportation is bound to be tremendous, and Upper Peninsula communities should take concerted action now to obtain the benefits that commercial aviation will offer them in the future.

WHO OWNS THE AIR?

(Detroit Free Press)

Aviation discussions have already been held with China and shortly will be undertaken with Russia. They are preliminary to a United Nations conference on postwar air transport.

The publicity given recent Anglo-American exploratory conversations in the same field may have overshadowed the fact that other nations must be consulted. China and Russia, for instance, control vast areas where we may want landing privileges. Also, when they are more advanced industrially, they may enter the international air carrying business on a large scale. Their conversion to "freedom of the air" will be useful.

WORDS TO WATCH

AD INFINITUM is Latin for "without limit," as, "The speech went on ad infinitum." The correct pronunciation — add-in-fine-tum — is found in the famous jingle written by Jonathan Swift, author of Gulliver's Travels:

So, naturalists observe, a flea Hath smaller fleas that on him prey; And these have smaller still to bite 'em; And so proceed ad infinitum.

Later, Augustus de Morgan carried the thought further by adding:

And the great fleas themselves, in turn, Have greater fleas to go on. While these again have greater still, And greater still, and so on.

HAUTEUR is often mispronounced "HAW-cher, haw-Too-er" or "HAW-ter." The word is from the French flavor. Rhyme the first syllable with "hoo, toe." The second rhymes with "her, per." First choice: hoo-TER. Second choice (French): oh-TER. The word NAPE should not rhyme with "cap," but with "cape." And be sure to avoid using the word thus: "The nape of the neck," for nape means "the back of the neck." "The nape of the neck" is redundant, for it means literally "The back of the neck of necks."

World War In The Air

BY MAJOR A. P. de SEVERSKY

A Soviet aviation officer, Lieutenant General Zhuravlev, recently came out with a blast against the air power theories held by the vast majority of American and British airmen. Writing in the authoritative Moscow Journal, War and the Working Class, he denounced our reliance on air power as a "pernicious" idea. In support of his attack he cited three sets of facts in the present war, which I shall examine below.

The Russo-German war has been entirely a land struggle. This was in part fixed by the fact that the two nations, being on the same continent, are in direct surface contact. I was fixed also by the circumstance that both countries had prepared for a land war and had built their respective air forces primarily as auxiliaries to their armies.

Russian views on air power are consequently colored by their own particular experience, which, of course, does not apply universally. This is not the first time they have shown themselves unable to grasp the special problems facing adversaries separated by a water interval, whether an English Channel or an ocean. But let us look at the specific arguments advanced by General Zhuravlev.

—BATTLE OF BRITAIN—
The first is the threadbare one that the German Luftwaffe, in its all-out effort in 1940, failed to overcome England in the Battle of Britain.

The Russians clearly have not caught up with the facts. Even the most diehard opponents of air strategy by this time acknowledge that the Battle of Britain was not a failure but a triumph of air power—a triumph, that is to say, of the Royal Air Force in its defensive action. The Germans brought to bear the wrong kind of aviation against the wrong targets; the defenders had an edge in both quality and strategic ideas.

The Nazi bombers attacking England were virtually defenseless. It was like sending an army equipped with bows and arrows against an adversary equipped with machine guns. Our bombing planes today, by contrast, are well defended, taking a heavy toll of the enemy's fighter planes. When two forces clash, one necessarily loses, but that hardly discredits aviation as a strategic weapon.

The Russian airman's second argument is that Germany still holds firm despite the great recent bombings. He fails to take cognizance of the fact that the all-out strategic bombardment of Germany was undertaken after a great delay which enabled the enemy to strengthen his defenses; that the magnitude of the attack is far smaller than it should and could have been if we had channeled our main efforts into air power; and finally, that the planes themselves are below the performance levels possible at the present stage of aeronautical science.

General Zhuravlev might also consider the important fact that the effects of aerial attack make themselves felt with a certain time lapse. In land battles, results are instantly evident and measurable in mileage. In sky battles the consequences are concealed for some time. We simply do not know at this writing with any degree of precision to what extent Germany's ability and will to resist has been weakened by air assault. To write off the effort as a failure is, to say the least, premature.

—THE CASE OF CASSINO—

The third point raised in the Soviet article is that air power did not succeed in taking Cassino on the Italian front despite full-parade bombardment. In this the Russian general follows a fallacious line of reasoning laid down by a good many American critics of air power in recent weeks. All of them are guilty of a sad confusion. They are making strategic deductions from what was a purely tactical action in support of the land forces.

The ground commanders wished to destroy an obstacle in the path of their land forces and called on air power to pulverize it. Air power did pulverize it. If the said ground commanders then found that it was difficult for their foot soldiers to take Cassino in that pulverized state, it certainly was not the fault either of the aviation or the artillery. The whole thing was an army operation in which the airplane simply supplemented the artillery. Whatever it may prove about ground operations, it proves exactly nothing about the strategic use of air power.

I can readily understand why the Russians play down air power. Their own great victories have been won by old-style surface slugging, but that scarcely establishes military laws applicable under different conditions. The Russians on many occasions reported having charged successfully against tanks with their cavalry, but that does not mean that cavalry is superior to tanks.

Warfare is continually becoming more technological. The Anglo-Saxon powers are unquestionably far ahead of Russia in modern technology. Our strategy should therefore be in line with the kind of power we possess. What is effective for the Russians may not be for us, and vice versa.

BERSERK, "frenzied, enraged," should not be accented on the second syllable; better say: BER-serk. The word comes from the name of a hero in Scandinavian mythology. Berserk was famed for the heedless fury of his fighting. He would charge into battle, wearing no armor, foaming at the mouth, and howling like a wolf (the four-footed kind), and no enemy had the courage to face him.

Delta Hardware Co. Soon To Receive Bids For $60,000 Building

The War Production board has approved an application of the Delta Hardware company for permission to construct a central storage warehouse at the rear of its present building, 402 Ludington, which will cost an estimated $60,000, according to W. J. Smith, vice president and manager of the company.

Plans for the building have been completed and specifications will be ready within a short time on which bids will be asked from contractors. The War Production board's approval limits cost of the building to $60,000.

The building will be constructed of concrete, brick and steel, one story in height. It will be approximately 129 feet wide and 300 feet long, and have a height of about 22 feet.

Construction of the new building is expected to start by July 1 and it is hoped to have it completed by October 1, Smith said.

Centralized warehouse storage has been planned by the Delta Hardware company for a number of years and such a building was nearly constructed in 1938. Present warehouse facilities of the company are scattered and there has been a growing necessity to bring the storage under one roof.

Although the new building will have only about the same floor space as the combined areas in the present buildings, modern storage methods will in the new building increase the capacity considerably.

The building will be served by a spur track from the North Western railroad, which will cross North First avenue in the 400 block at right angles. Included in plans for the warehouse is a raised section at one end, where two railroad cars can be entered to provide unloading facilities during the winter months.

ually, there were identical holes in the two wings.

But that wasn't what put them in the drink. Apparently the ignition system had been hit, for every now and then all four motors would stop for about five seconds at a time and then pick up again.

Finally the engines started going clear out, one by one. They saw for sure that they couldn't make the coast of England. Lieutenant White had everybody get in "ditching position." The radio man sent his distress signal. They hit the water. The plane broke in two. And yet not a man was scratched or bruised.

When they hit, salt water rushed up over the windshield in gigantic waves. The plane stopped moving and Bill looked up. All he could see was water. He thought they had dove straight into the sea and were going on down head first.

"I thought this was it," he said. "I was so convinced I was going to drown that I almost just sat there and didn't even try to get out."

But actually they came piling out of that plane like rockets. They said that in training they had been taught you would be all right if you could get out in 30 seconds. They were all out in 10 seconds.

The plane sank 40 seconds after hitting the water. They were 25 miles from shore. The men clung to their rubber dinghies, and in less than an hour a rescue boat came alongside and took them aboard.

Since returning they've had a wonderful time talking about their experience. They call themselves sailors now. Before this happened the crew used to do a lot of joking about "White's little air force goes to war." Now they've changed it to, "White's little navy goes to sea."

Whenever a ditched flier is fished out of the North Sea or the Channel, the R.A.F. rescuers give him a little felt insignia about an inch high in the form of a half wing, showing a fish skipping over the water. This is his membership badge in the "Goldfish Club." He is to sew it under his lapel, and throw back the lapel to show it when occasion demands. It isn't worn outwardly, I presume, because we don't want German agents to know how many guys have been fished out of the water.

The boys have another memento of their salt-water bath. They all have Short Snorter bills, of course. But they've started a new series of signatures on bills which they call "Dinghy Snorters." Only fliers who've had to ditch are allowed to sign these bills. They flattered me by asking me to sign, and said mine would be the only non-Goldfish signature permitted on their bills.

All ten of the ditched crew had wrist watches. Two watches, apparently waterproof, are still running. The eight others were corroded by salt water and have stopped.

Lieutenant White still wears his, even though it doesn't run. But while he ruined his watch he did save $40. He had ordered a $40 pair of fancy boots made, which he had expected to be ready the day before this mission. They weren't. He was pretty sore about it then, but now he's glad, for he would have had them on.

These two boys really enjoy their job, I believe. They get an exhilaration out of it. They see the funny side of life, and they're able to take things as they come. But still, of course, they would like to be home.

Lieutenant White's mother now works at the Mark Hopkins Hotel in San Francisco, and we sat around here in London wishing we were sitting at dusk at the "Top of the Mark," looking out over the steeped sea of San Francisco, so serene in its soft envelopment of peaceful mist.

INJURIES FATAL TO ENSIGN MAN

Oscar Weberg Dies After Being Struck By Logging Truck

Oscar Weberg, 56, of Ensign, died at midnight Wednesday at St. Francis hospital of injuries suffered Wednesday afternoon when he was struck by a truck loaded with the cuts while walking on the Ogontz road. The truck was driven by Mark A. Allen of Ford River.

Weberg's death was the third traffic fatality so far this year in Delta county.

It had not been determined last night whether an inquest would be called. An investigation of the accident by sheriff's officers revealed that Weberg stepped into the path of the truck, which was reported to have been traveling about 20 miles an hour.

Mr. Weberg was born in Ensign on October 5, 1887, and spent all of his life in that community, where he engaged in farming. He was unmarried, and made his home with his brother, Herman J. Weberg.

He was a member of the Ogontz Grange.

Surviving are one brother and three sisters, Herman J., of Ensign; Mrs. Miller Rudenberg and Mrs. David Constantino, of Ensign; and Mrs. Henry Tamms, of Milwaukee.

The body was taken to the Anderson funeral home where it will be in state late this afternoon. Services will be held at the funeral

TAX BODY SPLIT ON ALLOCATIONDeadlock On Vote Giving County More And Schools Less

The six-man Delta county tax allocation board deadlocked three-to-three Thursday night on a motion by Supervisor Henry Wylie to tentatively set a millage allocation which would have given the county some tax revenue which now goes to the schools.

The schools now receive 7.9 mills, the county 7 mills, and the cities and villages 1 mill—a total of 15 mills. It is the responsibility of the allocation board to allocate the 15 mills between the schools and the county. The 1 mill to the cities and villages is established by state statute.

Supervisor Wylie, Escanaba councilman and public school teacher, and chairman of the finance committee of the county board, sponsored the motion to tentatively allocate 7.45 mills to the schools. The motion was supported by Supervisor Harold Gasmann, Escanaba councilman, recent appointee to the allocation board. The vote on the motion was three for and three against, and the motion thereby failed of passage.

The vote: Yes—Supervisors Wylie, Gasmann and County Treasurer Ralph R. Olsen.

No—William Warmington, member of the Escanaba school board; C. P. Titus, county school commissioner; and H. J. Skogquist, Gladstone.

Failing in passage of his motion, Wylie said that he was willing to change his motion to read that the schools would receive 7.45 mills, subject to further study and that the equalized valuation of the county be increased to $17,000,000. It is now $15,821,400.

There was no support and the motion therefore did not go to a vote.

Following discussion, sometimes heated, a motion by Titus, supported by Warmington, was approved requesting John Lemmer, Escanaba superintendent of schools, and Wallace Cameron, Gladstone school superintendent, attend the next meeting of the allocation board.

This meeting will be held at 7 o'clock tonight at the court house.

Thursday night's meeting of the allocation board was called late in the afternoon by Chairman Olsen. Members were notified of the meeting by telephone.

Present at the meeting besides the allocation board members were O. J. Thorsen, chairman of the county board, and Torval Strom, prosecuting attorney.

There was a general discussion of valuation and taxation in the cities and townships. The prosecuting attorney advised that in a day or two all supervisors and assessors would receive copies of a letter he had received from Louis Nims, chairman of the state tax commission; and a list showing the sale price and valuation on properties within Delta county, which the state compiled from records in the county register of deeds office.

Supervisor Thorsen asked that the county board of review be given

Delta County
Nurses' Meeting

An interesting meeting of the Delta County Nurses Association was held Wednesday evening at St. Francis hospital, with Dr. Harold Q. Groos and Mrs. John J. Walsh, the principal speakers.

Dr. Groos spoke on the sulpha drugs, their uses and effects and on the nursing care of fracture cases.

Mrs. Walsh, who recently returned from a meeting of the War Nursing Council in Lansing, which she attended as the delegate of the Delta County Medical Society Auxiliary, outlined the nurses' part in the war man-power program and plans for Cadet Nurse recruitment.

A social followed the program and the meeting closed with a business session. At this session the Delta County Nurses Honor Roll was discussed and plans made for a meeting of all girls of the county interested in nursing and in entering nursing schools.

Worry Clinic

With Case Records Of
A Psychologist

BY DR. GEORGE W. CRANE

CASE C-259: Sara B., aged 54, is a reader of this column. "If you know proper child psychology, it certainly must be a new and cruel variety," she wrote me recently.

"Why do you hold your family up to the ridicule they are bound to receive by writing about them so often in your column?"

"It is a joke to many of us and we refer to it often, though we do not read the articles. Be kinder to your children."

Diagnosis. If this psychology feature were appearing in Chicago, our home town, then I would refrain from using any cases dealing with my family, at least unless they are willing to O. K. them. But it does not.

My children, consequently do not suffer from any teasing or other unpleasant comments since Chicagoans do not see these CASE RECORDS.

Should I Omit My Children? Do you readers want me to omit cases dealing with my children or with Mrs. Crane and myself? Drop a postcard or letter to your editor or to me and let us know your wishes for I can easily make this an impersonal column.

My reasons for occasionally using my children as examples are as follows:

First, I wanted you folks to see that they have the same youthful dilemmas and make the same mistakes as your own youngsters. Thus, you can compare your children of the same age and notice the similarity of juvenile problems.

Second, I wanted you to know that I am no "arm chair" or "brain-truster" psychologist who theorizes about child psychology without having intimate personal contact with youngsters.

While I spent five years as Research Psychologist under the National Research Council and Carnegie Institution of Washington, D. C., and concentrated on child problems during that time, the best way to study children is not in a laboratory or nursery school, but in a home where you have contact with them all day, and, if they are ill, maybe half the night besides.

Psychology of Growth. By employing my own children, moreover, I have continuity in demonstrating the psychology of growth and development from infancy to adulthood.

Just as it seems valuable to use the same characters from day to day in the strip comics and thus maintain continuity, it is often helpful to do the same in dealing with child problems.

In this column, therefore, I can ultimately show you a complete picture of the psychological evolution from babyhood to maturity on the part of the same children.

If my children were being discussed or ridiculed by their Chicago playmates, I would certainly agree with Sara today.

Since they seem adequately protected on that score, do you readers still agree with my previous policy or do you want me to leave the Crane children out of this column henceforth? You can be the jury, so let's have your verdict!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 3c stamped, addressed envelope and a dime to cover typing or printing costs when you seek personal advice or one of his psychological charts.)

As early as January, 1943, the Luftwaffe employed a jet-propelled interceptor plane effectively against RAF bombers at Brunswick. Its rate of climb was 4½ miles a minute—400 per cent better than our fighter planes.

C of C FUNDS ARE INCREASED

Report $1,500 On Hand To Be Used For Future Action

The Manistique - Schoolcraft Chamber of Commerce now has more than $1,500 in its operating funds realized through a recent drive, it was disclosed Wednesday night at a regular meeting of the Chamber.

With this fund the Chamber is now in a position to carry on a full program of work during the coming year, an officer reports. Chief topic now under discussion by the Chamber is that of a general survey of Manistique and vicinity, embracing the history and development of all industries, resorts and other businesses. Although no definite action has been taken by the Chamber, the directors hope to employ a specialized person to conduct the survey. Through the information developed through the survey, the Chamber will be able to answer many questions and give information on future possibilities of this area.

Another project discussed by the Chamber Wednesday night was that of publicity and advertising. The local Chamber expects to contact the Upper Peninsula Development Bureau at once, requesting that copies of the Lure Book be mailed to every army and navy camp in this country. It was pointed out that already servicemen are writing for information on the Upper Peninsula, and that this area would receive valuable publicity if a copy of a Lure Book was available in every camp library.

The Chamber wants suggestions for action, and has issued this statement: "The board desires, and would be very pleased to receive, suggestions from each member of the Chamber as to what action, activity or program he feels the Chamber should undertake. The board has invited members who have contributed suggestions for commercial development, to appear before it for further discussion; it plans on inviting others, and it is hoped that such round table talks will be very helpful."

2 RESIGN FROM RATION OFFICE

Ted Monroe And Ed Jewell Retire From Local Board

Edward R. Monroe resigned yesterday as a member of the Schoolcraft county war price and rationing board and Ed Jewell, chief clerk of the board, has tendered his resignation, effective June 10, it was learned yesterday. The resignations followed a meeting here Wednesday night with James A. MacDonald, district boards operation executive, of the OPA district office in Escanaba.

G. Leslie Bouschor, chairman of the board, resigned last week because of an OPA regulation prohibiting candidates for political office from serving on ration boards. Bouschor, county clerk, is a candidate for reelection to that office.

Alphonse Verschore, retired Schoolcraft county farmer, is the remaining member of the board.

Bouschor and Monroe have served on the ration board since its organization more than two years ago. Jewell has served as clerk of the board since April 1, 1943.

Monroe's resignation is effective immediately and is reported to be a direct result of a controversy with MacDonald concerning board procedures. It has not been indicated that Jewell's resignation, effective on June 10, was prompted by the alleged clash over rationing procedures.

The Escanaba district OPA office reported yesterday that Bouschor is one of six county clerks in the upper peninsula whose resignations from OPA rationing boards have been necessitated by the prohibition against political activity.

Cards Take 4-2 Decision Over Braves To Even Up 4-Tilt Series

Boston, June 1 (AP)—Right-hander George Munger gave the Boston Braves three hits and went out with a dislocated finger during the eighth inning today when the St. Louis Cardinals gained an even split in the four-game series with a 4-2 triumph.

Munger, who chalked up his sixth win, was injured when he tried to stop De Phillips' line drive with none on and none out and he was relieved by Fred Schmidt, who limited the tribesmen to one safety during the remainder of the game.

The Cards belted Al Javery for nine bingles, Stan Kloop for a 10th one and completed all of their scoring before Munger retired. A single and consecutive doubles by Ray Sanders and Stan Musial gave the Red Birds a pair of tallies in the third and they collected two more off Javery in the seventh, when, with two out, Sanders singled with the bases loaded.

Munger held the Braves to two hits until the sixth, when Clyde Klutznick doubled and scored on an infield out and Javery's fly to right field. A pass to Max Macon, plus a passed ball and two infield outs gave the Braves their final tally in the seventh.

It was the seventh setback in 10 starts for Javery, who topped the Braves' moundsmen with 17 wins last season. As usual, he was the victim of his mates' failures at the plate.

The Sports Parade

By Ken Gunderman

Manager Steve O'Neill has contended all season that his Detroit Tigers are potentially first division caliber, a faith that was unbroken even during the Tigers' inability to win at home during the early days of the season. When the club swept 10 of 14 games on its first eastern tour, the Tigers were accused of playing over their heads. O'Neill countered, "All right then, we've played under our heads at home." The Tiger skipper's faith apparently has been justified, judging from the way the team has been playing in the past few days.

How are the major league clubs making out financially this year? Well, the first eastern invasion by the Browns this year, including a stop at Cleveland, proved the most profitable, from a dollar and cents standpoint, in the club's history. Seventeen games drew approximately 171,000. Three night games in Washington played to 42,600 cash customers, 27,795 for a Sunday doubleheader in Philadelphia and 54,725 for a Sunday doubleheader at Yankee stadium. Nearly all of the other clubs report booming attendance this season.

Next week will mark one of the

Michigan Unbeaten For Big Ten Title; Gophers Go Strong

Chicago, June 1 (AP)—Minnesota and Northwestern will battle it out for probable runner-up honors in the Big Ten baseball league Saturday in a double-header at Minneapolis, while the only other week-end conference competition brings Indiana (2-6) to Ohio State (3-5) for single games tomorrow and Saturday.

Unbeaten Michigan, with six straight league wins which install the Wolverines as odds-on favorites for the title, goes outside the conference for a twin bill at home against Notre Dame. The Wolverines are heavily favored to wind up with a clean loop slate by taking their only two remaining conference games from Purdue next week.

Minnesota tripped Iowa State in a non-conference double-header last week, 4-1 and 4-3, as Musty Nolan, star Gopher pitcher, yielded only one hit in the opener. The twin victory represented the sixth and seventh consecutive triumphs for the Gophers, who have won five and lost one in conference competition.

Northwestern, with six wins against two league reverses, is expected to offer the Gophers a stiff battle in the set which marks the campaign close for both teams.

The Indiana-Ohio State series also completes the schedules for those schools, leaving the Purdue-Michigan engagements as conference finales.

BENGALS SWEEP 4-GAME SERIES

Hal Newhouser Gains His Eighth Win Of Season, Third In Six Days

BY WATSON SPOELSTRA
Detroit, June 1 (AP)—Don Ross doubled Jimmy Outlaw home from first base in the 16th inning today to give the Detroit Tigers a 4 to 3 victory and a sweep of the four-game series with the New York Yankees, extending Detroit's winning streak to six games.

Southpaw Hal Newhouser, who blanked the Yankees on five hits the last 7 1/2 innings, gained his eighth victory of the season and third in six days when the Tigers rallied in the seventh extra frame off Atley Donald.

Rudy Ruck and Pinky Higgins popped to open the 16th, but Outlaw singled off Shortstop Mike Mize's glove. On a 1-1 count, Outlaw broke for second and Ross hit the pitch into the right field corner, Outlaw scoring easily. It was Ross' only hit in six tries.

Up Near Top
The victory tightened Detroit's hold on the American League's third place, a game and a half behind the leading St. Louis Browns and a game behind the Yankees who dropped to second.

The Yankees forced the game into extra innings when Pitcher-Outfielder Al Lyons singled with two out and a man on third base in the ninth inning, making the score 3 to 2.

Arthur (Bud) Metheny hit his fifth homer of the season to give New York a lead in the first inning, but the Tigers got that back when Al Unser, hero of yesterday's triumph, tripled and scored on Eddie Mayo's single. Then Paul Richards belted a homer off Southpaw Joe Page with Outlaw on base in the fourth, giving Rookie Rufus Gentry a 3 to 1 lead.

The Yankees clustered singles by Larry Rosenthal and Ed Levy and a double by Nick Etten for a run in the sixth, but Gentry was clinging to a 3 to 2 margin going into the ninth.

However, Catcher Mike Garbark opened with a double to left, and Paul Trout reached first, permitting Garbark to reach third, but Milwaukee popped and Trout threw a third strike past Johnny Lindell, batting for Page, George Strinweiss drew a pass, and Manager Steve O'Neill sent out Newhouser to pitch to Metheny, a left-hand batter.

Outlaw Shows Speed
Manager Joe McCarthy countered by calling Metheny back to the dugout and sending up Lyons, a right-hand hitter, who promptly lined a single to left, scoring Garbark. Newhouser fanned Rosenthal to end the inning.

After the fourth, the Tigers didn't get a hit until Roger Cramer singled to left, pinch hitter in the 13th, but the Yankees didn't threaten much, either. Lindell opened the 14th with a double but didn't advance as Newhouser retired the next three.

In the 15th Cramer singled with two out and tried to score on a double by Mayo but was thrown out at the plate. The winning play in the 16th was similar, except that the speedier Outlaw got home safely.

Winner of seven games in eight starts against the Yankees, the Tigers have taken 17 of their last 25 games.

HOMER DOES TRICK

Cleveland, June 1 (AP)—The Boston Red Sox parlayed four first-inning runs with George Mikkovitch's three-run homer in the ninth to defeat the Cleveland Indians 7 to 6 today for their only victory in the four-game series.

The Red Sox put together six bases on balls, a single, a wild pitch and a double steal to tally their four first-inning runs.

Scoring three runs in both the fourth and fifth innings, the Indians took the lead 6 to 4 and held it until two Red Sox were out in the ninth when, with two mates aboard, Metkovich homered over the right field screen.

LOSING BROWNS HAPPY
St. Louis, June 1 (AP)—The St. Louis Browns were walked by the Washington Senators today, 11 to 5, but came up happy in defeat because they took over first place in the American league by two percentage points from the New York Yankees.

The slumping World champions, who have played fewer games than the Browns, slipped out of a tie for the lead by losing again to the Detroit Tigers.

Stan Spence, who would have an astronomical batting average if he played in St. Louis the year around, tied a major league record by pounding out six hits in six times at bat. His Herculean hitting, including a home run, led the Senators' attack on four Browns' pitchers.

Every member of the team participated in the 20-hit assault, with Jake Powell hammering out

Phils Knock Off Cincinnati, 8-7

Philadelphia, June 1 (AP)—Led by Pitcher Dick Barrett who hit a triple and a double to drive in four runs and score one himself the Phillies knocked off the Cincinnati Reds 8-7 today before 4-306 fans at Shibe Park.

Barrett tripled two runs across the plate and scored a third while the Phillies were registering four runs off Tomas De La Cruz in the second inning. In the eighth he doubled two more runs across with the second proving to be the winning margin for the Phillies.

Barrett had to be relieved in the ninth, however, when the Reds nicked him for two runs and put the tying marker on base. Big Bill Lee held the Reds hitless for the remainder of the inning.

First Baseman Frank McCormick homered for the Reds in the sixth with two men on base, Clyde Shoun and Bob Fausett had to give De La Cruz a hand. De La Cruz was the losing pitcher.

PHILS KEEPS ON TRAIL OF CUBS

Nip-And-Tuck Bout With Giants Lost 5-3 On Two-Run Homer

New York, June 1 (AP)—Danny Gardella's fourth home run with Bill Voiselle on base brought the New York Giants their sixth straight victory as they swept the Chicago series by Defeating the Cubs 5-3 before 13,265 paying customers tonight.

It was a nip and tuck 3-3 battle between Paul Erickson and Voiselle until Gardella's home run broke the tie in the seventh.

Bill Nicholson drove in Roy Hughes with a double for the first Chicago run and Johnny Rucker's homer tied it in the Giants' half.

Roy Hughes' double, P. H. Cavarretta's infield out, Parko's fly and Dom Dallessandro's triple gave the Cubs a pair of tallies in the third, while singles by Voiselle and Rucker, a pass to Gardella and Mel Ott's single evened the count in the same frame.

In Memoriam
In loving memory of our dear father and brother, Maurice LaMarche, who passed away one year ago today.

A loved one from us has gone,
A cheerful voice is stilled.
A place is vacant in our home,
Which never can be filled.
God in His wisdom has revealed
The joy His life has given.
And though his body slumbers here on earth,
We hope to meet in Heaven.

Sadly missed by

EXTEND STEAM MAIN IN CITY

Council Authorizes Plan
To Provide Service
At Elks Club

Extension of a city steam main to the Elks Club building on Ludington street was authorized by the Escanaba city council last night. Cost of the work is estimated at between $9,000 and $10,000.

The steam service has been requested by the Elks Club, which must either obtain the city service for its heating or purchase a new heating plant to replace the present old one. The city will undertake the extension only, however, if full approval is obtained from WFB, and if materials are obtainable.

Interest has been shown in city steam heating service by other building owners in the post office area. No other requests for service have been received, however.

Other business before the council last night included:

Reduction of the demand charge on the city's industrial electric power rate from $2.50 to $2 for the first 250 kilowatts. The rate was increased last year and is now reduced to a fairer level at the annual utility rate review.

Delayed action until next meeting on authorization of a contract with the Solar Furniture company.

Awarded insurance contract for the city's fleet of 27 cars to Auto Owners Insurance company, lowest of five bidders. W. J. Perron is local agent, and the bid was $233.75.

Approved increasing the amount of rent the city pays for Red Cross and Veterans Rehabilitation committee office space from $10 to $20 a month.

Increased the salaries of members of the board of review from $6 to $7 per day. The board of review will open its session Monday.

RETAILERS TO BOOST DRIVE

Fifth War Loan Campaign Will Commence
June 12

Retail merchants will spearhead the Fifth War Loan, in response to a recent appeal from Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthau, Jr., in which he said:

"We are going to need the help of retailers more than ever before during the Fifth War Loan, June 12 to July 8. No other group combines such a highly trained selling force with such well organized facilities for the advertising, display and promotion of war bonds. No other group is more keenly aware of the necessity for creating a back-log of 'E' bonds in their communities as security against after effects of the war. Your continuing effort to sell war bonds in the face of all the problems you are confronted with today is greatly appreciated by the treasury department."

Local retailers, who sold approximately $200,000 worth of war bonds in the Fourth War Loan, are completing plans for all-out united action and, with a retail quota about 25 per cent greater than in the last drive, expect to exceed their best previous record by a sizeable margin.

"Our committee expects the complete cooperation of every retailer, and every retail employee, not only in the purchasing of all the extra war bonds he can, but especially in seeing that every person in Escanaba is asked, again and again, to loan more money to our government."

"In the Fourth War Loan, 51 per cent of all employed people were asked to invest in extra bonds, and 64 per cent of those asked did so. Only 26 per cent of those not asked to invest in extra bonds did so. This proves that most people will invest in extra bonds if asked to do so, and our job, as retail people, is to see that no customer is overlooked. We meet almost everyone in the community every day and therefore, the treasury has asked us again to lead the way to more bond sales by asking every customer to invest extra dollars in this finest investment in the world. The retailers of Escanaba will do their part," stated Gust Asp, local chairman.

and daughter, Vera, left Thursday for Chicago where they will attend the graduation of their daughter, Dorothy, from St. Francis hospital school of nursing.
